

Mail Designer 365

Introduction

Mail Designer 365 allows you to share and publish your design as a website. In this way you can create a public archive of your newsletters.

When sharing your design as a website, Mail Designer 365 creates a folder with all the pictures for your design and a "*.html" file that contains the texts and structure for your template.

In the export window you can enter file name for the html file. If no file name is entered, the exported file will be saved as "content.html".

Sharing using your own server

If you are already using your own server for hosting your website, you can upload your design to share it as a sub site of your website.

In this case, please tick the option "Prefix image URLs with:" in the export window of Mail Designer 365 and enter the address you want to use.

During the export Mail Designer 365 will now replace the local path for your images with the address you've entered.

Upload the exported folder to the corresponding place on your server.
